Where has life taken you since you left WSDP?

After my time at WSDP and Plymouth-Salem High School (2003), I eventually graduated from Central Michigan University in 2007. While I launched my broadcast journalism career at WSDP and PCEP Perspective, it was at 7&4 News in Traverse City where I started getting paid for my work – barely. After a few years, I ventured down I75 to Florida where I have been since 2010 working at stations in Tallahassee, West Palm Beach, and now Orlando.

I have extensively covered politics, presidential campaigns, and hurricanes in addition to general assignment reports. In my career I have covered some of the biggest stories, including the mass shootings at Pulse nightclub in June 2016 in Orlando, Fla., and the shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Fla. In February 2018. I've witnessed three state executions and have literally traveled the world on assignment for stories in places that include Washington, D.C., Cabarete, Dominican Republic, and Haugesund, Norway. My work has appeared on local television stations across the United States, as well as CBS, NBC, ABC, and CNN.

What is your favorite memory of your time at the station?

"Awesome" is an overused term, but it is the best term to describe my time at WSDP. We had a great time hosting an 80's show, setting up promotions, and hosting concerts. But, nothing really beats those daily lunch periods just hanging out in the staff room.

Building relationships with friends and hanging out.

Why was being involved at WSDP important for you?

WSDP is an invaluable program because it gives individuals the chance to learn a wide spectrum of skills. It builds confidence in people who may be shy, it teaches how to look for attention to details and meeting deadlines, WSDP provides a space to create and build relationships. The radio station instills a mindset of responsibility and accountable – it is the best place to prepare for the real world.

What advice would you give to our current students?

Every day is a job interview. Success is more about showing up than it is about talent. There will always be someone willing to work harder and do more than you, if you let them. Be humble, be kind, be generous, show up, and work hard. That is how you build success and opportunities.
